Preface

This research is mainly aimed at identifying the forms and pattern of violence against women in the state of Goa within its small civic society besides suggesting majors to protect the human dignity of women in general. Particularly, it is meant for woman's mainly the teenage and adolescent girl etc... Material which was used as research evidence has been sourced from databases made available from databases made available from various agencies and departments of the state Government. An attempt has been made sincerely to provide updated statistics and data. However, there are certain areas where gaps may continue to exist as the latest data remain unavailable. So also the author does not claim that this book is documentation of the various government acts and law on the protection of women legislation in toto.

The research was planned by the researcher on the basis of the review of literature as well as findings of the basic data as generated by the concerned agencies in the course of Government attempts to effect protection to the women in the state. Besides this relevant data collected by the researcher by way of conducting the social surveys is also utilized to make the research an empirical one.

Violence against women is rapidly increasing and it has become a global issue. This type of violence affects women simply because of their gender as the impact of violence against them is immense. The quantum of gravity of violence varies based on short term as well as long term effects of violence against women, which takes even a devastating toll of women's lives, on their families and on society as a whole.

The major challenge in Goa is gauging the nature of violence
